GILLETT CALLS FOR CHARGE A FALSEHOOD

Speaker Denies Seized Rum
Was Ever Taken to His Office

Washington, D. C., April 18.—While Speaker Gillett does not deny that there has been whiskey in his office at the capital, he declares that there is "not a word of truth" in the statement made before the subcommittee by H. L. Hunt, that the whiskey was carried to him from the Department of Justice.

Sen. Gillett, formerly an investigator employed by that department, testified that some of the liquor taken from travelers at the Union station here went to the office of Speaker Gillett.

Mr. Gillett, whose membership in the House of Representatives dates back more than thirty years, and who always has been ready to help a friend, says the story probably is based upon an incident five years ago, when he was the aid of a Massachusetts constituent.

"This is definitely a revival," the Springfield Congressman said, "of a story noticed in the papers about two years ago, based on the fact that in the Spring of 1919, before the Volstead law was passed, the trunk of a constituent of mine in Florida, had in it a few bottles of whiskey, one of which bottles were in Washington and the trunk was confiscated."

"I was away, but my secretary on satisfying the Department of Justice that there had been no intention to violate the law of carrying liquor through dry territory, secured the trunk without the whiskey and sent it to its owner."

"This was all explained at the time in the press. No one is now inclined to give color to a false charge."

LABOR OPENS FIRST BANK IN BOSTON
Labor's first exclusively owned national bank in Boston will be opened within the next few weeks by the Brotherhood Locomotive Engineers.

An application has been filed at the Comptroller of Currency office at Washington for a charter to organize such a bank here in this city.

It is expected that this charter will be speedily granted, and that a national bank will be opened at No. 10 Devonshire street, in the room formerly occupied by the Comptroller Trust Company, in place of the last company for which a charter was granted the brotherhood some weeks ago by the Massachusetts State Board of Bank Incorporation.

AIR POWER SPEEDS SCULPTURING

FIGURES OVER NEW CHAMBER OF COMMERCE ENTRANCE
Using air power on his chisels and drills, Joseph Ardini is carving all the figures over the main entrance to the new Chamber of Commerce at Federal and Franklin streets in a month—the length of time it would require a hand power sculptor to finish one of the figures. Ardini's work as seen in the head of a Roman legionary is fully as artistic as that of a studio sculptor despite his lack of training in a school. The left is the model from which he carved the figure.

ARRESTS LEAD TO FINDING OF STOLEN AUTOS

Shots Fired in Chase; "Clearing House" of Thieves Located, Say Police

With the arrest of two men on a thrilling chase in which two stolen cars were first, Cambridge police are confident they have discovered a wholesale clearing house for stolen automobiles.

Three specific cars, which have been traced to the two men, are being held in connection with the case.

Arthur "Tommy" Meola, who escaped from Motorcade Officer John Barrett of Boston several days ago in an effort to escape, and last night was under arrest with John Vincent of No. 363 Hurley street, Cambridge, Meola had at No. 363 Hurley street, both are twenty-five years old.

Three specific auto thefts are charged to them. It is charged they were putting "stepped" license plates on a stolen car when surprised by police of Central square station. The car was found in stolen car that had not been transferred, but it slipped through the fingers of the arresting officers. These three men were in the car, which was in the hands of the police.

When questioned, Meola, whose three girls friends remained at his home in Cambridge, said the office he was too well known in the district to be arrested of crime, and that the accounts of a building directly across the street were great friends of his.

Barrett, according to Cambridge officials, decided to investigate and went with Meola to the building. The three girls followed. When they stepped inside the door there was a man.

The girls became all tangled up with the officer. Meola escaped, abandoning the stolen car, which was owned by Roy N. Halbo, well known in the district.

Since that time Meola had been sought throughout Greater Boston, the authorities say.

But he did not desert from his activities. On April 14, four days after the Winchester theft, John Marshall of No. 1 Broad street, Roxbury, turned in a stolen automobile in Harvard square. When he returned it was on April 15, John E. Callahan of No. 129 Portland street, Cambridge, was robbed of his car.

The car was found in Meola and Vincent working on the automobile, which was owned by Marshall.

A heavy hand was placed on Vincent's shoulder. He gave up. But he did not. The car was found in Meola and Vincent working on the automobile, which was owned by Marshall.

Woman Carries Her Unborn Babe for 51 Years

Taking April 19—the day the most astounding discovery in medical history was made in St. Vincent's Hospital here—a few days ago when an operation for a "tumor" revealed that an aged Toledo woman had carried for fifty-one years the perfectly formed body of an unborn baby girl.

The mother died a few days after the operation. Her death was caused by a combination of disease due to old age, physicians said. She was seventy-four years old.

Small Timers Are Growing Curious

Some small time acts playing the Boston Theatre complained about the dressing rooms. When told that Booth, Barrett, Salvini and Mary Anderson had occupied the same rooms, one of the complainers, in deep reverence, exclaimed: "Great Heavens, did they play this time, too?"

'POP' SEASON OPENS ON MAY 5TH

Agide Jacchia Will Direct Orchestra of Eighty Pieces

The thirtieth season of the Boston Symphony, which is to resume its season this evening and on alternate Sundays through the spring and early summer, will open its new season on Monday, May 5. This season will be the eighth under the leadership of Agide Jacchia, the most brilliant and accomplished of all Boston conductors. Each of Mr. Jacchia's seasons has broken all standing records in attendance, and it seems likely that the thirtieth season will be the most successful the Boston has ever had. Refreshments will be served at the table which runs the floor at Symphony Hall, and in the lounge bar and cafe. The orchestra will number about eighty. Mr. Jacchia's opening program is a type of the musical de light which the Boston provides.

Boston Girl Has Leading Role in "The Bat"

Virginia Richmond, one of the players in "The Bat" which returns to Boston at the Arlington Theatre, is a Boston girl. Miss Richmond began her theatrical career about nine years ago when she was selected to minor roles in one of the plays staged by John Craig, who at that time was in great popularity at the castle Square Theatre. This was followed by an engagement at Knickerbocker, N. Y., where she played ingenue roles. Later she played leading roles in stock companies in Montreal, Quebec and Ottawa.

New Fairbanks Film Opens Here on May 5

Once again Douglas Fairbanks is to appear as a gay rogue, but a rogue who reforms and becomes a prince, when he appears at the Colonial Theatre on Monday evening, May 5, in his newest and by all odds his greatest picture, "The Thief of Bagdad." He is the same agile, romantic, daring, but in the most colorful gorgeous settings imaginable. The play is based on the Arabian Nights and nothing quite so big or beautiful has heretofore been attempted on the screen. The Boston premier promises to be a real letter event in the local amusement season. For fourteen months Fairbanks worked on this picture at the Hollywood studio, and at times several thousand people were employed in the portrayal. Now that all the work is over, Doug and his wife, Mary Pickford, sailed ahead on their first vacation in two years. They will visit Iceland, Ireland and the Channel, returning to their Los Angeles home via Siberia and Japan next Fall.

DUSE'S TOUR

UPSETS ALL

WEEK'S NEW PHOTOPLAYS

Have feature films at last got the drama on the run? Two legitimate theatres—the Majestic and Tremont—have yielded to the celluloid, and announcement is now made that the Colonial will take on Douglas Fairbanks and his new picture on May 26.

Charles Major's popular novel of "The Day of the Soldier" is being filmed in "Dorothy Vernon of Haddon Hall" by the Colonial. The story is set in the reign of Henry of England, when Elizabeth and Mary, of Scotland, were in the castle. In the cast are Marc Ma- James and Estelle Taylor, and a special feature.

Lloyd in "Girl Shy." A comedy of love and romance, and a brand of Lloyd comedy. "Safety Last" is the newest new note. Besides "Girl Shy" and "Safety Last," the Paramount features.

"With Allergy in the World War" is the story of a young man's life in the World War. In the cast are a young man and a young woman in a spectacular color picture. The picture is a new wrinkle of Ardisa and is being shown daily.

Sherrill, Olympic Prospect, Injured

Nelson Sherrill, former intercollegiate pole vault champion, will be lost in the American Olympic tryouts, as he dislocated his right ankle while training at Franklin Field, Philadelphia.

GREB 10 TO 7 FAVORITE FOR BUT WITH NORFOLK TONIGHT

FIGHTS FIGHTS FIGHTS
FIGHTS FIGHTS FIGHTS
FIGHTS FIGHTS FIGHTS

By JACK CONN

Harry Greb, world weight champion, and folk, one of the great colored fighters, are for the sound of the bell.

Although Greb will be by ten pounds, he will be a 10 to 7 betting favorite on the night of the fight.

GREB CONFIDENT HE WILL WALK OFF NORFOLK

Greb and Norfolk both are training in this city. Fighting men displayed a dash and vim in their sparring.

"I shall plaster Norfolk more boxing gloves than he can see in his life," declared Greb.

"I know that the Black is a terrible puncher. I do not intend, however, to let Norfolk get a wild wallop at me. I shall be in to keep up with him."

"All I ask is one punch at the first round when we meet at Norfolk. If I get the first knock out, I shall be in to keep up with him."

There you are, ladies and gentlemen. You now have the statements of the great fighters.

Perhaps you can name the winner. It should be a hard guessing battle with Greb's skill and speed and Norfolk's ruggedness and surprising power.

GREB VIRTUALLY MATCHED TO MEET DELANEY

The outcome of the contest means a great deal to both sides, and is virtually matched to clash with Jack Delaney in New York in a "cash for the title" bout.

There will also be three other prize fights. Jack Delaney will fight with Frank Morris of South Brooklyn, Johnny Andrews of South Brooklyn will oppose Willie Fox of New York, and Frankie Murray of South Brooklyn will oppose Kelly of Dorchester.

ABBE FRIEDMAN AND ADD TO SUFFOLK CARD

Apparently Matt Friedman, Tom Gordon of the Suffolk A. C. believes in doing things in a big way. After making Jack Sherrill, who is a heavy weight, to fight Eddie Hecord in the future bout of the rounds at the Suffolk Club night, the fight figured Hecord had put over a match big enough to satisfy even the most ambitious matchmaker.

Then came the announcement that ABE FRIEDMAN, New England heavyweight champion, would defend his title against Tommy Fox of South Boston on the same card. This event also is billed for the same night.

This is what the promoters term "sensational". Fox, a former light heavyweight, all but defeated Friedman in a battle at the Arena last summer. Friedman's kick which was the only thing that enabled him to effect Fox's early exit.

Blackley and Record, who swap punches in the final contest, are heavy training and expected to put up one of the greatest punching matches of the year. When these two meet, each should be a knockout. The decision which went to Record failed to make with the best of the fans who witnessed the battle.

Matchmaker Goodman says that he will book still another bout which will start the whole town talking.

"Too set big crowds are expected to be shown," says the Suffolk A. C. Matchmaker, answers the public.

GAUTREAU PURPLE LEAD-OF BATTER

Worcester, April 19.—Doc Gautreau will be the first Holy Cross pitcher to start the season at the home of the Purple. Coach Jack Lavery has decided to keep the diminutive second sacker in the lead-off position, while the son of the butting order has not yet been decided upon.

It will be a test of Greb's speed and skill against Norfolk's aggressiveness and surprising power. And we figure Greb will win. Of course Norfolk will be able to crack over with one of his T.C.T. locks.

"It is a bout of national importance and the outcome of the contest will be decided by the outcome of the fight in all parts of the country."

Jack has picked fifty-five winners out of a possible sixty this year. This chatter all of his own amazing records for naming "em right.
